Jolo Cooks Joey.

Jolo's team was cooking this week and finally got a win on the board. He was likely going to win anyways, even with a subpar performance, but his team came to play. Meanwhile, Joey started a band of bums and UPS drivers in hopes of getting lucky. Jolo has the capability to go on a run with how his team has been scoring, but he needs to get some schedule luck.

Luckiest Man Wins.

If Devon could score hypothetical if points he would've won by more this week. But, instead, he edged out Ben's team. Ben. If only you had kept the weekly all star team you gave to Jhajuan. You could've won your first game.

George Puts Belt on Dylan's Ass.

I was a non-believer in George's team. But it keeps performing. George has been getting really good performances from his WRs and the Schedule has been cooking so far. We'll see if he can keep it up. For Dylan, his team severely underperformed. His highest scorer got 13.3 points. George is putting himself in prime position for a deep playoff run. And Dylan is sliding in the standings. The end of the season will be an interesting horse race.

George Files Saga: George Seen at Knee Surgeon. Rumors are that He is Giving his Knee to AJ Brown. Records Report that He has Given his Hammy to Saquon.

GAME OF THE WEEK:

Jhajuan Beats David M after Robbing a Bank.

Ben donated his team to Jhajuan so that he could reap the rewards of a split buy-in. Or so we think. Either way, Ben's team did great on Jhajuan's roster this week. Unfortunately for David M Tet and Wilson didn't go nuclear, so he couldn't combat the 100 points combined from Jhajuan's RBs. Has a new super team formed? Meanwhile, David M records his first loss of the year.

Dejon skirts by Vic.

Dejon was the beneficiary of some luck. A highly efficient Caleb Douglas game gave him the win over Vic. Vic is like a metronome, oscillating from mid to good every week. This was a mid week. The game was virtually wrapped up by Sunday night and Flournoy finished the job for Dejon. Both of these teams play super teams next week, so it's necessary for them to improve upon this last week's performance in order to stand a chance.

Cesar Handles David G.

Cesar's WR stack performed well this week. As his WRs go, so does he. Imagine if his team could get more production from a RB2. The hunt for a RB2 for Cesar is still on. On the other hand, David G's season is likely over. His team's defense simply cannot do anything this year. Curse of a former commissioner.

Is Jolo v. George a sneaky championship matchup? More on page 8(d).
