

IAN BOOK BELIEVER'S WEEKLY RECAP — YR 4, END OF REGULAR SEASON!

PRAISE THE FATHER,

THE SON,

& THE HOLY SPIRIT

GAME OF THE WEEK

JHAJUAN CLINCHES THE FIRST SEED AGAINST GEORGE, 160.6 TO 146.4.

Truthfully, it was hard to find a game of the week this week. There wasn't anything on the line for the top 4 besides seeding, but they didn't play each other. The playoff fringe teams didn't really go head to head. But, because Jhajuan clinched the first seed, and Dejon has had too many games of the week appearances, we're going to award it to him.

A solid effort all around, but the key difference was Devin White (22.75). Kyle Pitts (16.5) showed up this week, and Jhajuan got a steady high teens point total from his lead backs Jacobs (17.2) and Brown (18.5). Nico Collins (16.1) and the Dolphins D/ST (17) round out the other heavy hitters for Jhajuan this week. Michael Wilson's favorite QB, Jacoby Brissett (23.75) also added some garbage time numbers to the total.

George was unlikely to make the playoffs anyways, but he wanted to spoil Jhajuan's parade. Unfortunately, Harold Fannin (25.4) and Cameron Dicker (20) weren't enough to prevail this week. On the bright side, Mark "Left Tackle" Andrews (1.9) showed up this week.

Devin White got NINETEEN tackles this week. A clutch performance that will not be forgotten, unless Jhajuan suffers from the league leader curse...

WEEKLY GAMES RECAP

VIC'S TEAM TRIED ITS BEST AGAINST JOLO IN A 159.55 TO 109.25 VICTORY.

Vic had a great week, Burrow's (30.2) second game back showed us that he shook off any rust. Achane (17.5) got hurt, but was on his way to a scintillating day; Etienne (21.2) also had another good game. AJ Brown (16) actually met his projection and DK (21.8) showed up for once. Vic even got 25 points from his kicker, Jake Bates (15), and Defense, the Bills (10), combined.

The story of Jolo's season has been Gibbs (37) lighting the scoreboard up with no run support. Both teams have to be disappointed. Vic, because he was so close to making the playoffs despite such a bad start. Jolo, because, once again, he's locked out of the playoffs. But, he's had more time to grieve this year.

- TL;dr: Vic lit up the scoreboard, but it was too little, too late.
- Vic will look to be atop the consolation ladder, he'll have an interesting choice on who to keep for next year, if he chooses to keep anyone.
- Jolo, hopefully, has hopes to climb the ladder, at least for pride. Will Jolo keep Monangai?

Pictured here is Vic tackling his playoff hopes. Close, but no cigar.

CESAR FINISHES ON A HEATER, BOOKING HIS TICKET TO THE PLAYOFFS IN A 190.45 TO 133.95 WIN OVER JOEY.

Talk about a scoring explosion. ONE HUNDRED POINTS(!!!!) from one game for Cesar. Stafford (32.05), Puka (35.7), Wilson (38.7) and McBride (10.8) almost singlehandedly defeated Joey this week. RJ Harvey (22) had a great game and Javonte (14.7) was solid. The question remains: How fucked would we have been if Ben didn't finesse Cesar?

Joey's reign of terror finally ends. This is the first year he's missed the playoffs. He's been first, third, and first. Is the Greek magic gone? Is the dynasty over? Joey will have a lot of time to ponder what he could've done differently this year.

- Tl;dr: Cesar's team got a heavy lift from the Rams-Cardinals blowout.
- Cesar will hope that Michael Wilson's handcuff, MHJ stays out and that the Rams train keeps rolling as they compete for a first round bye.
- Joey's Colts-Lions stack faltered down the season. But we all know he's keeping Jonathan Taylor again.

The Cardinals new WR1 has something to say—his last two weeks (25 catches, 303 yards) have never been matched before by a Cardinals WR—MHJ who?

BEN BARELY WINS AGAINST DYLAN, 121.95 TO 111.25, AS HE STUMBLES INTO THE PLAYOFFS.

Ben didn't have to win this game to make the playoffs and ultimately whether he won or lost it wouldn't have changed his seeding. Dylan was on the outside looking in. Jhajuan is probably still convinced he would've made the playoffs had he made the Henderson trade. Either way, Dylan wasn't going to do shit when his quarterback, Jalen Hurts, gives him -2.2 points. Mahomes didn't do much better, offering up 1.9 points for Ben. Ultimately, Tee Higgins' (27.2) big day and Ben's most consistent player, the Seahawks Defense (20) helped carry him to victory. Emeka Egbuka (3.5) has really, really, really cooled down, which must be concerning for Ben. The Jefferson Trade haul came through, at least Waddle (18.1) did. Jeanty (5.8) had a disappointing day.

- Tl;dr: This game was majorly inconsequential. Sorry boys don't got much for you.
- Ben is gearing up to play Devon round 1. Which version of his team will show up next week?
- I'm not sure if Bijan could've made a difference for Dylan this year. Will that crazy white boy be his keeper?

Remember, be vigilant and always report whenever you see a member of a terrorist organization. This is our mugshot of the suspect.

DAVID M PREVAILS IN THIS WEEK'S BATTLE OF THE DAVID'S AND CLINCHES A FIRST ROUND BYE AFTER BEATING DAVID G 172.8 TO 142.

This game was the most consequential, but not quite game of the week material. David M got revenge for Vikings 32 in his own defense and special teams scoring bonanza. Jack Campbell (20.5), Vikings D/ST (15) and Jason Myers (15.5) combined for 51 points this week. More than enough to dispose of David G. The real kicker is 31.4 points from the Steelers backfield (Warren 15.2; Gainwell 16.2) when they only rushed for 28 yards. The golden boy, JSN (28.1) shined and Christian Watson (24.9) had a monster game.

Josh Allen (46.35) tried his best to carry David G to the bye. But Bijan (9.4), Ladd (2.2), and Aaron Jones (7.6) had other plans. Blake Corum (26.1) and Omarion Hampton (16.2) sat on David G's bench. Those two could've won the week for him.

- Tl;dr: David M broke free from the pack, won the game, and secured his bye.
- The real question is will David M's team continue to play to its potential, or will it falter in round 2?
- David G will be kicking himself for not securing the bye. The trilogy of Cesar v David G will premiere in round 1.

What a steal this guy has been. And David M gets to have him for at least one more year at a premium draft position. This is a case study in why managers should be rewarded for good drafting with keepers.

DEJON CUCKS DEVON IN A 149.4 TO 107.45 VICTORY TO DENY HIM A FIRST ROUND BYE.

Dejon didn't need to win. But he's a prideful man and slayed the dragon in spite of it all. He had to get his fourth win, after all, it was destined. The Brandon Aubrey (25.5) pick finally worked out. He also got unexpected, but welcomed, contributions from Devin Neal (16.9) and Dallas Goedert (18.8). Saquon (18.2) finally had a Saquon week again. And Dak (21.7) has been steady all season.

Devon finally got a good game from Lamar (23.25) and Bucky (16.1) had a solid outing. Unfortunately, Nick Chubb (0.3), AD Mitchell (3.4), George Pickens (8.7) and Davante Adams (6.9 (nice)) all disappointed this week. A win would've got Devon the bye. And yet, it was all but a dream.

- TL;dr: Dejon reached his fourth win and shut Devon out of a first round bye.
- Devon's team will be happy to get Tet and CMC back for round 1 after their bye. He could've used them this week. Those dreaded week 14 byes are tough.
- Dejon once again had a disappointing season. He's gone 8-20 so far in 2 seasons. Will next year be the breakthrough?

Brandon Aubrey had the most 55+ yard field goals in a single game this week. A tough break for Devon. He also broke the record for most field goals made of 60+ yards in one season. This man is a UNIT of a kicker.

WEEKLY MATCHUP PREVIEW AND PREDICTIONS

PREDICTED MATCHUP OF THE WEEK: Cesar v. David G

- The third matchup between these two teams. David G is 2-0 so far, but it's been a series of unfortunate events for Cesar. It's hard to beat a team three times and that's why I'll be picking Cesar to advance to round two.

Ben v. Devon

- Ben's team has been performing better than Devon's the last three weeks, but will Lamar show up this week? CMC also has a juicy matchup with Tennessee. This is a tough one to pick. If Tee Higgins can't play, Ben might be screwed. I'll pick Devon.

Joey v. Vic

- Vic's team has been red hot and all playoff teams are lucky that he didn't get in. Given that, give me Vic.

Dylan v. George

- I can't pick the team who just got negative points from Jalen Hurts. George, don't prove me wrong.

Jolo v. Dejon

- Number 12 v Number 11. No analysis, but Dejon finished the season strong. I'm gonna pick Dejon to climb the consolation bracket.

Jhajuan & David M- ON BYE

- No analysis needed here other than Jhajuan's team needing the rest due to injuries. Fun fact: No team with double digit victories has ever won our league crown.

COMMISH PICK'EM'S RECORD:
