Jhajuan Puts BTA Against Vic's Hapless Team

Vic's team is helpless. Jhajuan's team puts in a solid all around performance, but he could've scored only 99 points and still won this week. Sorry Vic, this year isn't your year.

Dak and JSN hit Jolo like Little Boy and Fat Man

In another Belt To Ass game, two 40 bombs from Dak and JSN made all the difference. Throw in JT's contribution and they accounted for 91% of Jolo's total points. That's the story of the game, and that's how it goes. Jolo seems to be shadow banned from ever making the playoffs.

Black Magic Still Alive: Joey Wins After Buying Temu Spell

Somehow, somehow, Joey finds himself in the win column despite DJ Moore putting up -0.1. Ben could've won, but he stubbornly keeps playing Quinshon Judkins (Hell), while Kincaid scored the points needed to win this week on the bench. Special Teams and Defense win games and they won this one for Joey.

GAME OF THE WEEK:

Dejon's Triumph Over David G's Hobbled Team

Dejon defeated David G's team 156.45 to 149.2. Terrence Ferguson attempted to crawl back in this one but just was not close enough. A Thursday night miracle from Jared Goff's garbage time performance carried the day for Dejon, who was sweating this one all day Monday.

Dylan Comes Up Close, But No Cigar Against Devon

Another game, another close to Monday Night Miracle. Davante Adams led the charge with 41 points, and Jake Ferguson put in 20 of his own. But that was not enough to overcome Josh Allen's 49.3 points on Thursday night. Devon held off Dylan, winning 156.25 to 145.1.

Cesar Makes George Ride That Meat

Cesar overcomes George with the help of the vintage Mahomes-Kelce stack. Unfortunately for George, the only person who got the message that a game was being played this week was ARSB. Can he survive without AJ Brown? Meanwhile, will Cesar ride a vintage Chiefs team to a repeat?
